2025 Priority Themes

ACCAN has identified two priority themes for the 2025 Grant Round. Applicants may choose to address either of these priority themes.

Communications services

The first priority theme for 2025 is research examining the consumer protections frameworks for safety net communications services, including those provided under the Universal Service Obligation, Universal Service Guarantee and Statutory Infrastructure

Provider regimes. This priority research theme could, for example, encompass projects examining consumer protections in place under the Customer Service Guarantee (CSG) and contemporary and emerging challenges with consumer reliability frameworks in Australian and comparable jurisdictions. This theme will prioritise research that can produce research outputs with policy impact.

Emerging technologies and implications of developments relating to telecommunications

The second priority theme for 2025 is research examining the consumer protection frameworks for emerging technologies in telecommunications and other like services. This includes the changing landscape around Low Earth Orbit satellites (LEOSATS), Direct to Device messaging, digital services/communications and digital platforms. Applicants to this priority theme are encouraged to investigate the institutional processes used for developing retail consumer protections for consumers in an increasingly complex telecommunications landscape. This theme will prioritise research that can produce research outputs with policy impact.

Primarily, which 2025 Priority Theme does your project address? *

- Communications services
- Emerging technologies and implications of developments relating to telecommunications

Primarily, which group of consumers will benefit from this project? *

- Consumers generally
- Small business
- Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islanders
- Low-income
- People with disability
- Culturally and linguistically diverse
- Youth
- Seniors
- Women
- Rural, regional and remote

Of the following, which best describes the 'Applicant' *

- Individual (not associated with an organisation)
- Not for Profit organisation
- University
- Research organisation (private or government-funded)
- Telecommunications Industry
- Small business
- Local government

Choose 'Individual' if you have applied with an ABN in your own name.
